Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I used to have a 100 megabit internet connection for $60 a month. I now switched to fiber and have a 1,000 megabit connection for $50 a month. I was able to get a much faster connection for less money due to local competitive carriers. This creates more competition which will encourage companies to upgrade their hardware and offer competitive pricing. This makes it better for the consumer and in turn creates jobs which helps boost the economy. If we end competitive telecom, there will be no reason for big companies to upgrade their internet speeds. They will continue to offer below average internet speeds (based on an international level) at increased prices. It is in all of our best interests to save competitive telecom.

Thank you for your time.
